MARYLAND GUIDELINES FOR A STATE CODE OF DISCIPLINE

Dr. Lowery reported that Department staff worked with members of the Open Society Institute of Baltimore (OSI) on revisions to the Maryland Guidelines for a State Code of Discipline. She thanked Maria Lamb and Walter Sallee for serving respectively as the Interim Assistant State Superintendent and Director for the Division of Student, Family, and School Support. She then introduced Kristina Kyles, the newly appointed Assistant State Superintendent, Division of Student, Family and School Support; Robert Murphy, Staff Specialist, Student Support Services; and Katherine Rabb, Esq., Program Officer, Education and Youth Development Program, OSI, to discuss the Guidelines.

Ms. Rabb commended the Board on the important work they have done to ensure equity in the schools and said, “You are trailblazers.” She explained that the process used to revise the Guidelines was very inclusive and she provided a list of organizations with membership on the workgroup. She said that the Guidelines create a structure that emphasizes discretion for decision-makers, and is designed to eliminate disparities in discipline and make consequences meaningful and appropriate. She said there were many opportunities for public comment and numerous changes to the document.

In response to a question by Mr. DeGraffenreidt, Ms. Rabb said that the changes to Attachment 3, the third draft of the Guidelines, were not substantive. There was brief discussion about what option the Board has regarding the Guidelines. She explained that school districts need the document for clarification to create their codes of conduct. Ms. Rabb brought the Board’s attention to Section II: Student Behaviors and responses and the levels of responses in the document.

Mr. Murphy discussed the ranges of insubordination and disrespect which, he noted, were primary topics of discussion among the workgroup participants. Mr. DeGraffenreidt stressed that the Code requires the use of “progressive discipline.”

Ms. Diaz expressed the importance of disseminating this document to the community.

Dr. Lowery suggested that LEA Master Plans, which are updated each year, could require LEAs to disaggregate data on student discipline to see if “disrespect” is over-used in meting out discipline.

Mr. Smith urged the need for LEAs to report back to the Department on how attitudes and culture have been changed in the schools. He said, “We want lasting effect.”

Mr. Murphy said that LEAs have done a lot of work to cut suspensions and address the Board’s concerns. Dr. Lowery said that the Board will receive a report on discipline trend data at its December meeting.

Ms. Staton said, “There is a lot of ambiguity in ‘disrespect.’ I hope you are encouraging dialogue.”

In response to a question by Mr. DeGraffenreidt, Mr. Murphy said that work will continue in providing best practices to schools which include successful intervention strategies and alternatives to suspensions. He also noted that the Department will be hosting an “Alternative to Suspension Conference” for teachers and administrators.

Mr. DeGraffenreidt made a motion to accept the second draft of Attachment 3 (Recommended Revisions to the Guidelines for a State Code of Discipline) which was distributed following Ms. Rabb’s remarks. He then withdrew his motion to provide the Board with time to review the second draft and then discuss this afternoon if action is in order.
STATE ASSESSMENTS NOW AND THE FUTURE

The Superintendent introduced Dr. Jack Smith; Dr. Henry Johnson, Assistant State Superintendent, Division of Curriculum, Assessment and Accountability; and Dr. Jeffrey Lawson, Executive Director of Cecil County Public Schools, and Dr. D’Ette Devine, Superintendent, Cecil County Public Schools, to provide an update on state assessments. She explained that the results of the Maryland School Assessments (MSAs) in Reading and Mathematics can be used by LEAs in the development of Student Learning Objectives (SLOs).

Dr. Smith discussed the MSA scores and the proposed transition from MSA to the PARCC assessments. He said, “This is the end of an era but this last set of MSA scores does have relative value for us.”

Dr. Johnson reported that more than 330,000 students were given MSAs. He reported on a decrease in science scores noting that science was wrapped into reading and that the focus was on reading and mathematics.

In response to a concern expressed by Dr. Gates about drops in science scores among elementary students, Dr. Smith explained that science is taught in different grades in elementary school and that students may have been tested on science that they have not been taught yet.

Dr. Lawson discussed the root causes of poor test results among students noting that students must be identified early and receive supports and interventions to address these root causes. He discussed a growth model for Cecil County Public Schools which includes developing an Academic Index for each school.

In response to a question by Ms. Diaz about what kind of interventions are effective, Dr. Devine said that school readiness data for students entering kindergarten very closely aligns with graduation rates. She said they are looking to improve early childhood programs to mitigate problems for students later in their school years.

Dr. Johnson provided a recommended Maryland High School Assessment Program for PARCC and HSA for the 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 school years.

Dr. Lowery explained that staff is working on the timing of the PARCC testing and recommended the following:

1. During the 2014-2015 school year, students will be administered the end of course tests in PARCC English 10, PARCC Algebra I and PARCC Algebra II only.
2. The Maryland State Board of Education will set the passing scores for students after the 2014-2015 administration.
3. During the 2015-2016 school year, the PARCC assessments in English 9, English 11 and Geometry will be added to the list of end of course assessments for high school students.
4. HSAs/MOD HSAs in English 10 and Algebra I/Data Analysis will be administered for the final time during the summer of 2015.
Upon motion by Ms. Staton, seconded by Mr. DeGraffenreidt, and with unanimous agreement, the Board approved the recommendations. (In Favor – 11)

EXPANDING ACCESS TO DIGITAL LEARNING AND COMPUTING IN MARYLAND

Dr. Lowery introduced Cindy Hasselbring, Special Assistant to the State Superintendent; Kathy Oliver, Assistant State Superintendent of Schools, Division of Career and Technology Education; and Valerie Emrich, Director, Instructional Technology & School Library Media, to provide an update on digital learning and computing in Maryland.

Ms. Hasselbring discussed digital literacy courses for high, middle and elementary school students. In response to a request by Ms. Staton, Ms. Hasselbring said she will provide the Board with demographics of students taking these courses. She provided names of the various partners who provide access for digital learning for students in Maryland.

Ms. Emrich discussed a menu of options for professional development for teachers and reported that the Maryland Technology Standards are being revised. She discussed blended courses for digital learning and Dr. Gates agreed that blended courses are the wave of the future. Ms. Emrich provided a chart depicting the significant increase in student online courses over the past ten years and discussed the names of various partners providing these courses.

In response to a question by Ms. Diaz, Ms. Emrich said that there is an opportunity to provide these courses during in-school suspensions.

In response to a question by Ms. Eberhart, Ms. Emrich said that these courses can be taken after school without the need for a teacher to be present. In response to a request from Ms. Eberhart, Ms. Emrich agreed to provide the Board with the number of online courses being offered and taken by students in each school district. In response to another question by Ms. Eberhart, Ms. Emrich said that coding will be offered in all schools and that the LEAs will determine when those courses will be introduced. She explained that coding will be built into the Technology Plan for Maryland Schools due to be published in the fall of 2015.

Ms. Oliver explained that there are many ways that coding can be offered through Race To The Top (RTTT) funding of online courses and reported that more than 7500 students are enrolled in Career and Technology Education (CTE) Programs.

In response to a question by Ms. Staton, Ms. Oliver said that staying current in these areas is a challenge and is addressed by the Program Advisory Councils. She said they report on the changes needed by industry and the Department works with universities and colleges to keep the courses current. She said, “It is important for students to recognize that learning is a continuing process after graduation.”

Dr. Gates urged the need to focus on technicians rather degrees. Ms. Oliver said that even at the technician level, most jobs require college degrees. She said the programs are anchored to competencies and that students are required to demonstrate their knowledge and skills. In response to a question by Dr. Gates, Ms. Oliver said that most adults are participating in community college courses rather than through the high schools.

Ms. Eberhart requested a deeper dive into the CTE Program. Dr. Lowery said, “We need a statewide policy. Ms. Hasselbring said that a Strategic Plan for STEM will be distributed in September and will be a “work in progress.”

Ms. Staton urged the need for cyber security training since Maryland is a cyber security state.

CURRICULUM UPDATE: RTTT EARLY LEARNING CHALLENGE GRANT – PROGRESS REPORT

Dr. Lowery introduced Dr. Rolf Grafwallner, Assistant State Superintendent, Division of Early Childhood Development, and Lindi Budd, Branch Chief, Maryland EXCELS, to provide a progress report on the results of an RTTT Early Learning Challenge Grant.

Dr. Grafwallner provided a detailed accounting of the progress for each of the ten projects toward meeting the set of milestones and deliverables by December 31 of this year. He also asked Ms. Budd to provide a report on the use and impact of Maryland EXCELS, a Tiered Quality Rating and Improvement System (TQRIS) for child care and public pre-K programs.

Ms. Budd said that this is a national movement which awards ratings to child care and public pre-K programs that meet increasingly higher standards in key areas of quality. She explained that the program reaches out to families to make them aware of the State’s online quality programs for their children. She discussed Maryland’s EXCELS Standards, bonuses provided, the availability of Quality Assurance Specialists, the EXCELS website and participation in the program from July 2013 through July 2014.

Dr. Grafwallner said that this assures that children in low income families are in high quality programs.

Ms. Eberhart said, “This is critical work you are doing.”

Mr. Giammo provided several ideas and suggestions for improving information and user friendliness on the Maryland EXCELS website. Ms. Budd thanked him for his input and noted that his ideas will be incorporated in the improvements that are being planned for the site.

Ms. Tally invited Mary Gable, Assistant State Superintendent, Division of Academic Policy and Innovation, and David Volrath, Teacher Principal Evaluation Planning and Development Officer, to discuss some major accomplishments of the RTTT projects. She stated that since the last Board meeting, one hundred percent of the amendments provided to the U.S. Department of Education (USDE) have been approved.
